EISS Conference 2019 – Call for papers

26-27 September 2019 – University of Zurich – Switzerland

The European Institute of Social Security wants to offer a platform to starting researchers in the domain of social security. During the annual conference of the EISS, three timeslots of 20 minutes are open to young researchers (working on their PhD or a project of similar scope) to present their work to a wide range of social security experts.

Candidates who are interested, should send in a paper that functions as the basis for their presentation. The paper should be on the broad topic of social security, and should either have an interdisciplinary approach or a comparative approach.

An outline of the paper one wishes to present during the conference has to be submitted before 31 May 2019 (2 pm) at the following e-mail address: info@eiss.be.

Candidates will be informed of their selection by 5 July. If selected, they should submit their full paper by 31 August 2019 (2 pm). The paper can be maximum 10,000 words (font style Arial 12), excluding footnotes.

Selected candidates will get financial support for travel and stay (invoice based) up to a maximum amount of €350.
